

The Shakespeare Theatre Company
AUDITION SIDES – THE DOG IN THE MANGER

FURIO

Side 1 of 1

FURIO. You've done very well for yourself.
Spread a bit of the good luck round.
Get the wine in.

ANTONELO. Tristan's the gent.

TRISTAN. I am and noblesse doth oblige.

FURIO. Great suit.

TRISTAN. Ha! This suit's an old rag in comparison to what's coming.
I've all my skittles in a row and if things work out as they should,
I shall be the secretary's secretary.

FURIO. Well, the Countess has set her glad eye on your boss.

TRISTAN. He's her right-hand man, the doorway to her favour.

FURIO. Talking of right hands, mine needs a drink in it. Let's go.
There's a tavernacle right here.
Let's go in and take communion.